

CVRD - Madison Covered Call ETF

Fact Sheet

Fund Objective

The Madison Covered Call ETF seeks to provide consistent total return and secondarily, to produce a high level of income and gains.

Why CVRD?

Income generation and growth potential

Covered call writing strategy provides a diversified income stream with the potential for capital appreciation.

Active management

High-quality, high-conviction stock investing with an active, single-stock options overlay.

Participate & Protect*

Premiums from call options help partially offset potential market losses, while out-of-the-money call writing allows for potential upside participation.

As a writer of a covered call option, the fund forgoes, during the option's life, the opportunity to profit from increases in the market value of the security covering the call option above the sum of the premium and the strike price of the call.

This fact sheet will be updated with investment and performance information at a later date.

Madison Asset Management, LLC does not provide investment advice directly to shareholders of the Madison Funds.

Indices are unmanaged. An investor cannot invest directly in an index. They are shown for illustrative purposes only, and do not represent the performance of any specific investment. Index returns do not include any expenses, fees or sales charges, which would lower performance.

The S&P 500® Index is a large-cap market index which measures the performance of a representative sample of 500 leading companies in leading industries in the U.S.

The CBOE S&P 500 BuyWrite (ticker: BXM) Index is the passive representation of a covered call strategy. The BXM Index is an unmanaged (passive) total return index based on buying the S&P 500® stock index portfolio and "writing" (or selling) the near term S&P 500® Index "covered" call option (SPX) every month with an exercise price just above the prevailing index level (i.e., slightly out of the money). An investment in the fund is subject to risk and there can be no assurance the fund will achieve its investment objective. The risks associated with an investment in the fund can increase during times of significant market volatility. The principal risks of investing in the fund include: equity risk, growth and value investing risk, special risks associated with dividend paying stocks, option risk, interest rate risk, capital gain realization risks to taxpaying shareholders, and foreign security and emerging market risk. More detailed information regarding these risks can be found in the fund's prospectus.

In addition to its covered call strategy, the fund may pursue an option strategy that includes the writing of both put options and call options on certain of the common stocks in the fund's portfolio.

A call option is considered "out of the money" if its exercise (or strike) price is above the current market value of the underlying stock.

Diversification does not assure a profit or protect against loss in a declining market.

*The Fund's investment strategy reflects Madison's general "Participate and Protect®" investment philosophy. Madison's expectation is that investors in the Fund will participate near fully in market appreciation during bull markets and experience something less than full participation during bear markets compared with investors in portfolios holding more speculative and volatile securities. Therefore, the Fund's investment philosophy is intended to represent a conservative investment strategy. There is no assurance that Madison's expectations regarding this investment strategy will be realized. Madison Funds are distributed by MFD Distributor, LLC, member of FINRA. The net asset value ("NAV") per share for each fund and class is determined each business day at the close of regular trading on the New York Stock Exchange (typically 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time) by dividing the net assets of each fund and class by the number of shares outstanding of that fund and class. Shares of any ETF are bought and sold at market price (not Net Asset Value), may trade at a discount or premium to NAV and are not individually redeemed from the Fund.
